

The future of the Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem depends on strong partnerships across science, policy, business, and community. On April 30, 2026, the Northern Rockies Conservation Cooperative will convene one of the region's most respected gatherings of conservation leaders at the 10th Biennial Northern Rockies Conservation Symposium, held at the Center for the Arts in Jackson.

This long-standing Symposium brings together conservation and wildlife management professionals, scientists, elected officials, students, journalists, business leaders, and engaged citizens to address the most pressing conservation challenges facing our region. As a sponsor, your organization will be positioned alongside trusted voices in conservation while demonstrating visible commitment to the future of the world-renowned Greater Yellowstone Region.

We invite you to consider sponsoring this year's event. Your support will not only help make the Symposium possible — it will also provide meaningful exposure to a highly engaged and influential audience. Sponsorships directly offset registration costs for all attendees, including reduced and free admission for early-career professionals, students, journalists, and government employees. Your sponsorship helps to ensure that diverse voices can participate in critical dialogue shaping the future of the region.

This year's theme, Building Resilient Networks for Conservation in a Changing Democracy, reflects the urgency of collaboration at a time when funding for scientific research and conservation programs is increasingly uncertain. Your sponsorship strengthens regional networks, supports knowledge exchange, and helps advance practical solutions that promote human-wildlife coexistence and safeguard our wildlands and wildlife.

Sponsors will receive recognition including:

- Logo placement on the Symposium webpage
- Recognition in press releases and event promotions
- Logo inclusion on event posters
- Recognition in the printed program distributed to all attendees
- Additional visibility opportunities outlined in the sponsorship materials

The program includes 20 presentations on the latest in environmental science and conservation management, panel presentations from distinguished speakers, a robust poster presentation session, and dedicated networking opportunities. The event's panelists include Todd Wilkinson, Jonathan Schechter, Andrew Hansen, Susan Clark, and Robert Keiter. The Symposium will conclude with a keynote address by Christina Cromley Bruner, former official in the Offices of the Inspectors General for the U.S. Departments of Interior and Energy and Co-Founder and President of For 250 More. The keynote event includes a conservation art showcase and reception, and is free and open to the public as a means for welcoming the broader community to engage with this important work.

By sponsoring the Symposium, you demonstrate leadership, strengthen your connection to a values-driven regional audience, and visibly invest in the future of the Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem.

To ensure inclusion in all marketing materials, we kindly request confirmation of sponsorship by March 30, 2026. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss sponsorship levels and tailor benefits to best align with your organization's goals.

Thank you for considering partnership with the Northern Rockies Conservation Cooperative. We hope you will join us in making this important convening possible and look forward to seeing you on April 30.

Sincerely,
